The Pollinator Conservation Association is a 501c3 formed in 2016. We currently have three pollinator gardens in progress and approval for a fourth, all on public lands and accessible to the public. Find out more about us at <http://www.pollinatorconservationassociation.org/> We are seeking two new board members to help us with development, finance, and governance. If you are interested in volunteering with us, please email the president, Larry Brooks, at larrybrooks_50@msn.com.

Funding for EV Charging Stations

Through Charge Ready NY, NYSERDA provides rebates of $4,000 per charging port for Level 2 charging stations installed at public, workplace, and multi-unit dwelling parking lots. This could add up to a savings of 30% to 80%, depending on station and installation costs. An additional incentive of $500 per port may be awarded for installations within disadvantaged communities. A searchable map of disadvantaged communities in New York State can be found on NYSERDA's website. Most utilities now offer incentives for installing charging stations that can cover most of the installation costs. These incentives can be used in tandem with both the Charge Ready NY incentives and New York State and federal tax credits.

Barnacles Inspire New Glue to Aid in Wound Sealing

Currently, most injury and surgery-related bleedings is stopped with hemostatic agents that induce the blood to clot. In an effort to speed the process, MIT scientists have taken inspiration from barnacles which attach firmly to rocks and other hard surfaces to develop a super-strong surgical glue that can stop bleeding within 30 seconds. In lab tests, the glue stayed put for weeks before breaking down as the tissue injured tissue healed. For more info and the article, read Rapid and coagulation-independent hemostatic sealing by a paste inspired by barnacle glue.

New Invasive Species: Map Shows you What to Watch

Making sure the lands and waters you love to hunt and fish stay healthy is one of the best ways we can support wildlife. Invasive species are plants and animals that not only harm our forests and waterways, but they can also harm New York's fish and wildlife. Hunters, anglers, and wildlife watchers like you can be a first line of defense, and there's an easy way for you to know what to look for: DEC's #OnesToWatch interactive map! Click on your region of the map to see the species DEC is tracking in your neck of the woods. Then follow the link for each species to find more detailed information, including info on how to easily report sightings.

Tiles from Fish Scales

Made entirely from fish scales (or 99.5% of it), Scalite is a bio-sourced, biodegradable, and naturally nonflammable material that turns a byproduct of the fishing industry into a striking stone-like material that can make buildings a little greener, one tile at a time. During Scalite's manufacturing process, this biopolymer is extracted and mixed with the mineral part of the scales to create the basis of the material, which is then mixed with a small quantity of a natural binder and dyes. The substance is then compressed into molds with a hydraulic press. The end result looks a bit like speckled Corian but with more vibrant hues like mustard yellow or moss green. Read more.

Geocaching: Have Fun and Make a Difference

Geocaching is a treasure-hunting game that uses GPS-enabled devices to find caches other players have hidden. Caches could be a small container, like a film canister; as large as a trash can; or something tricky, like a fake rock with a hidden compartment. Inside each cache, there's a logbook so players can log their finds and often choose some small, fun thing to
